

A canoe in Sweden

Contributed by Tom Steenbergen
maandag, 24 maart 2008

During some googling for more information about stripbuilding kayaks & canoes, I came accross a site on buidling a (strip) canoe in Sweden. The nice suprise about this was that the pages are also available in Dutch.

This site and canoe are build by Alex Wedzinga who moved from the Netherlands to Sweden a couple of years ago and now earns his living running an outdoorstore and kayak/canoe activities, so if you are still searching for a holiday destination, have a look at his website.

The pages on the canoe buliding give a nice step by step impression of the building process resulting in a beautiful canoe. For more information have a look here <http://prive.route62.se/red%20cedar%20strip%20canoe/>